3. What are these lawsuits about?

Beginning at least as early as 2003 and continuing through 2013, it is alleged that the Defendants conspired with each other to fix prices in the FX market. It is alleged that the Defendants communicated directly with each other to coordinate their: (i) fixing of spot prices; (ii) controlling or manipulating FX benchmark rates; and (iii) exchanging key confidential customer information in an effort to trigger client stop loss orders and limit orders. It is alleged that the Defendants’ alleged conspiracy affected dozens of currency pairs, including the U.S. and Canadian dollar (USD/CAD) currency pair, which is one of the world’s highest volume trading currency pairs. Due to the importance of spot prices, it is alleged that the Defendants’ alleged conspiracy impacted all manner of FX Instruments, including those trading both over-the-counter and on exchanges.

It is alleged that to give effect to their conspiracy, the Defendants did the following:

- created and participated in exclusive interbank chat rooms;
- improperly shared confidential client and proprietary trading information;
- executed coordinated trading to influence the FX rates;
- monitored the conduct of co-conspirators to ensure secrecy and compliance with the conspiracy;
- used code names and misspelled words in interbank communications to evade detection; and
- agreed to “stand down” by holding off buying or selling currency to benefit co-conspirators.

A TRIAL

13. How and when will the Court decide who is right?

If these cases are not dismissed or settled, the Plaintiffs will have to prove their claims and the claims of the other Class Members against the Defendants which have not settled at a trial. The trial would be in Toronto, Ontario, in one case and in Quebec City, Quebec, in the other one. During the trials, the court will hear all of the evidence, so that a decision can be reached about whether the Plaintiffs or the Defendants are right about the claims in the lawsuits. There is no guarantee that the Plaintiffs will win any money or benefits for the Class at trials.

14. Will I get money after the trial?

Before the Settlement Amounts are distributed, you will be notified about how to ask for a share or what your other options are at that time. Important information about the case will be posted on the website for the lawyers, www.kmlaw.ca/fxclassaction, as it becomes available.
